

Feast of the Founder Celebration in Thailand

On May 19, 2016 The Brothers, teachers, and students gathered at La Salle Hall to remember and pay respect to Saint John Baptist de La Salle, Patron Saint of all teachers and our school in Chantaburi, Thailand. Brother Luke Chaiyaporn FSC, director of the school, led the crowd with a short prayer and followed by procession of teachers and students to offer roses in front of the statute of Saint John Baptist de La Salle. La Salle College Hosts Secretary for Finance, Mr John Tsang, and Harvard University Scholarships Awards

On Friday 27th May La Salle College hosted the Secretary for Finance, Mr John Tsang, and the Harvard University Scholarships Awards. Mr John Tsang is an alumni of La Salle College and Harvard University. The Scholarships Award Ceremony is organized each year by the Harvard University Alumni Association of Hong Kong. The Hong Kong Awards Ceremony is the largest out of 200 such award ceremonies outside of Boston.

Mr Jesko von den Steinen (Cirque du Soleil & House of Dancing Water), Mr Jason Chiu (Founder/CEO of Cheerypicks group) and Mr Cesar Jung-Harada (Founder/CEO of Makerbay) formed a Discussion Panel chaired by Mr Vincent NG on the topic 'Creativity'. All three gentlemen are involved in cutting-edge companies in Hong Kong. The presentations were riveting and inspirational for the young people present. Dangerous New Antibiotic-Resistant Bacteria Reach U.S.

A dangerous new form of antibiotic resistance has spread to the United States, according to a report published Thursday. Researchers at the Department of Defense announced that a Pennsylvania woman developed a urinary tract infection (UTI) with bacteria that fought off an antibiotic of last resort called colistin, and had 15 genes for resistance to other antibiotics. Until now, many bacteria have been vulnerable to colistin, even if they have been able to survive other medications. Since this type of resistance can easily spread between bacteria, the findings have sounded alarm bells among scientists over fears that common infections will soon be untreatable...
